

The Man they call G - Big Beat Entertainment

The Man they call G is a comedy singing impressionist and a totally unique act!

His show is a wonderfully entertaining combination of singing impressions, wit and craziness; covering a vast range of music with an amazing talent for mimicry. A former member of The Brother Lees, he has performed throughout the British Isles in venues ranging from pubs and clubs to the London Palladium. He has recently completed two very successful summer seasons with the Cromer Pier Show.

The Man They Call G is an excellent singer in his own right, but the wild card in the act is the voices (and not just the ones in his head). He has a huge repertoire of vocal impressions ranging from James Blunt to Joe Cocker. The show takes you on an unpredictable ride from an uncanny Louis Armstrong to a roaring Nickelback, and from the dulcet tones of George Ezra to the squeaky Bee Gees. There are nods to Monty Python and comedy legends such as Billy Connolly, and character voices from the likes of Family Guy and the Muppets.

Half the fun of G's act is noting his myriad facial expressions and random lyric changes and comments, often so subtle they could be missed. He can be silly with the best of them, and never misses the chance of a witty retort. And you never get exactly the same show twice, (which makes it ideal for rebooking), there is always something new to experience...So pay attention! Ideal for corporate events, live comedy nights, private functions, charity events to name a few.
